A Stomboat Sketch.

The hour was approaching for the departure of the New Haven steamboat from her berth at New York, and the usual crowd of passengers, newsboys, fruit venders, cab-men, and dock loafers, were assembled on and about the boat. We were gazing at the motley group, from the foot of the promenade deck stairs, when our attention was attracted by the singular action of a tall brown. Yankee, in an immense wool hat chocolate colored coat and pantaloons, and a fancy vest. He stood near the starboard paddle-box, and scrutenizing sharply every female who came on board, every now and then consulting an enormens silver bullseye watch, which he raised from the depth of a capacious fob, by means of a powerful steel chain. After mounting guard in this manner he dashed furiously down the gang plank and up the wharf, re-appearing on board almost instantaneously, with a flushed face, expressing the most incense anxiety. Mr. Hartman is opinion that the more effectual course, or rather the more rapid means to be employed in securing the privileges demanded by Uppur Canada, would be a dissolution of the Union. This is the inference we draw from the remarks made by these two gentleuten at the Peel demonstration.

ive claim as a matter of justice; and u dissolution of the political Union we urge as a necessity, from the relative wants and requirements of the two sections of the Province .-Two thirds of the revenue of the Colony is paid by western Canada,-while the Lower Province, by their time-serving subserviency to the "powers that he" manage to secure the largest share. An increase in the would have a tendency to place a wholesome check upon this state of things, and perhaps be the means of meteing out justice to those who contribute most towards the general revthe case, it must be admitted that that would ludgement for Plaintiff. be a work of time. From the relative popul lation of both Provinces, Upper Canada could only claim, at this present time, some six or teven more Representatives, thin our neighbors east; and taking the history of the past take so much more of the peoples' money to onable ministers to purchase the power neceseary to the successful carrying out of their matured schemes. Political treachery is betrust a man is almost sure to be deceived,-This is one reason why we urge a dissolution, in the hope that the country may be benefitted. and the means at the disposal of Crown Ministers placed under the more immediate supervision of the people; but while we arge a dissolution, we shall also labor to secure Representation by Population, and rejoice should the Opposition succeed in securing this boon for the people. The membe for Lumbton argues that by obtaining an increase, all the erils complained of would be remedied. Should this be the case we will be quite satisfied; but at the present time we have our misgivings, as to the result.
